

Dr. Hans Günter Brauch, HGBS Board, Alte Bergsteige 47, 74821 Mosbach, Germany, 26 September 2022
49-6261-12912 □ hg.brauch@onlinehome.de, <http://www.hgb-stiftung.de> and <http://www.hgb-stiftung.org>

Modified Call: First International Science Prize 2023

Research Theme in 2023: Climate Change and Conflict

The Hans Günter Brauch Foundation (HGBS) for Peace and Ecology in the Anthropocene was established on 8 May 2020 on the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the end of World War II and the start of the longest period of peace in Central Europe in the Modern Era.

The HGBS supports two prizes on scientific research and education on scientific themes related to peace, ecology and the Anthropocene and of linkages between these themes:

- Locally with a prize for high school students in the county of the founder that was first awarded in June 2022 to 12 pupils: <<http://hgb-stiftung.de/html/Schuelerpreis.html>>.
- Globally in an annual International Science Prize that is first awarded on 14 July 2023.

This International Science Prize for Peace and Ecology in the Anthropocene (ISP) is awarded annually with a prize money of 3.000 Euro. The prize is open to scholars from all disciplines. It is awarded based on an assessment by an International Jury for an original, innovative and a substantial contribution in research on Peace and Ecology in the Anthropocene. The specific research themes change each year.

- The HGBS awards the science prize annually to a scholar of any country who has made innovative scientific contributions on the theme of the call. The prize may be divided among up to 3 scholars.
- The foundation accepts nominations or self-applications by scholars working at a university or a research institute. It also reserves the right of the jury to award the prize to a scholar of any nation who has contributed innovative research on the specific theme of the annual call without applying.
- Each scholar may participate by submitting an original text of research authored or co-authored by the applicant in English that
  - was published as an article in a peer-reviewed journal, as a chapter or book since January 2020;
  - is an unpublished report or book manuscript (including a PhD dissertation or habilitation).
- If submissions are assessed as equal in quality the prize will be awarded to a female scholar or to a scholar working at an academic institution in Africa, Asia and Latin America.
- Nominations and self-applications are invited until 31 January 2023 with these documents:
  - An electronic version of the published text that was published since January 2020;
  - Or: An unpublished manuscript of a report or book as a protected pdf;
  - a CV and publication list of the author with her/his professional affiliation and contact details;
  - A signed letter that the applicant has authored the submitted text.

The deadline of submissions of the electronic copy for the ISP 2023 is 31 January 2023 to: hg.brauch@onlinehome.de. If the nomination/application is successful the HGBS asks for a printed version by post to: HGB Foundation, Alte Bergsteige 47, 74821 Mosbach, Germany.

Global Jury of the International Science Prize

PD Dr. Hans Günter Brauch, Board Chairman of the HGB Foundation, Jury co-chair, Germany; Prof. Dr. Úrsula Oswald Spring, Deputy Board Chair of the HGBF, Jury co-chair, Mexico; Dr. Grace Ngaruiya, Kenyatta University, Nairobi, Kenya; Dr. Jean Chrysostome Kimbuku Kiyala, Senior lecturer, DUT, Durban, South Africa, DRC; Prof. Dr. Richard Matthew, Director, Blum Center, Univ. of California, Irvine, USA; Prof. Dr. Lourdes Arizpe Schlosser, UNAM, CRIM, Prof., Emerita, Mexico; Prof. Dr. Simon Dalby, Wilfrid Laurier University, Waterloo, Canada, Emeritus; Assoc. Prof. Dr. Dahlia Simangan, Hiroshima University, Japan; Prof. Dr. Imtiaz Ahmed, University of Dhaka, Bangladesh; Prof. Dr. Susan Park, Sydney University, Sydney, NSW, Australia; Prof. Dr. Jürgen Scheffran, Department of Geography, Hamburg University, Germany; Dr. Judith Nora Hardt, Researcher, Centre Marc Bloch, Humboldt University, Berlin, Germany.

Details of the 2023 call are at: <http://hgb-stiftung.org/html/Science\_Prize\_2023.html>. >.